$1,000 HAS LAIN IDLE FOR YEARS

In the Winchester National Bank.

SOUVENIR OF THE FEUD DAYS

Suggested That a Monument To Ed Callahan Be Built With It.

HISTORY OF "TAINTED" MONEY

Lexington, Ky., May 18.—The recent death of Ed Callahan, the notorious Breathitt county feud leader, from the bullets of assassins, brings to light the fact that, a singular souvenir of his feud career is now in the Winchester National Bank, at Winchester, Ky., in the shape of a deposit of $1,000, which is unclaimed, although it has been there for eight long years—at least no one has yet been able to legally call it his own.

The story of this $1,000 is an interesting one, and perhaps has no parallel in history. It was deposited in the Winchester bank in December, 1904, and played an important part in the $100,000 damage suit which Mrs. Abrella Marcum brought against the Hargises, Callahan and B. Fult French for alleged complicity in the assassination of her husband. Mose Feltner was one of the important witnesses for the plaintiff in this celebrated trial, and the defendants, especially Judge James Hargis and Ed Callahan, realized that he was the most dangerous witness that they then had against them, since his sensational testimony in the criminal trials had been so strong, and they were anxious to keep him from testifying. The plan as afterward developed, was to bribe Feltner and several other important prosecuting witnesses to leave the State.

With this end in view, Mose Feltner was given $1,000 in cash, which is the same $1,000 now on deposit in the Winchester bank. Mose testified at the trial that the money was given him by a "red-mustached man," whom he did not know and never saw before. He turned the money over to his brother, Felix Feltner, to be put in bank for him. When the facts concerning the alleged bribery were brought out in the trial, and subsequently Felix Feltner put in a claim for the money, on the ground that it was deposited in his name, and Mose Feltner also claimed it as his, Circuit Judge J. M. Benton, before whom the matter was brought up for hearing, decided that the money was so tainted with fraud that neither of the Feltners was entitled to it. Of course the "red-mustached man," whom Feltner alleged gave it to him as a bribe, never showed up to claim it, and it was left in the bank, where it has remained ever since, with no rightful owner.

Several times members of one faction or the other have laid claim to the money, but so far none of them has been able to get it out of the vaults of the bank. The latest claimant for this mysterious $1,000 is B. Fult French, the former Perry county feud leader, who was indirectly associated with the trials. French, who resides at Winchester now, seeks to get possession of the money, on an attachment, which he has sued out, and the case is now pending for settlement in the Clark County Circuit Court. But those acquainted with the litigation believe that French will have a hard time to prove that he is legally entitled to it, and the latest suggestion to be made relative to the use of this $1,000 is that it be applied to raising a monument over "Deacon" Ed Callahan as the last of the fighting Breathitt county feudists.

GRIM EVIDENCES OF DEATH BY STARVATION

New York, May 17.—Bits of cork in their mouths and toothmarks on the cork and wood portion of the boat indicated that starvation killed three Titanic victims whose bodies were in a Titanic collapsible lifeboat picked up by the White Star liner Oceanic, which arrived here to-day. Two of the bodies were secured to thwarts by pieces of chain. The body of a cabin passenger was identified by the clothing as that of Thompson Beattie, of Chicago. The other two were members of the crew. A fur coat with the name William inside the pocket, and a woman's ring indicated that there had been others in the boat. The bodies were buried at sea by the Oceanic crew.

"DOC" HARVEY W. WILEY
IS NOW A PROUD PAPA

Washington, May 16.—With the Bureau of Chemistry still without a chief, a possible hereditary successor to Dr. Harvey W. Wiley arrived in Washington to-day, when the former chief chemist of the United States became the father of a boy, his first born.

All former official trials and tribulations were forgotten, and there was unalloyed joy in the Wiley household. Dr. Wiley, who is sixty-seven years old, was married to Miss Anna G. Kelton a year ago.

WITH HIS LIFE ALLEN MUST PAY THE PENALTY

Leader of Virginia Gang of Desperadoes That Shot Up Entire Court.

Wytheville, Va., May 17.—Floyd Allen, leader of the Carroll county gang which shot up the court at Hillsville on March 14, causing the death of five persons, was found guilty of murder in the first degree. The verdict of the jury carried with it a penalty of death, and he will be electrocuted.

The verdict of first degree murder was reached only after many hours of deliberation, in which some of the jurors stood out for a lesser penalty.

Floyd Allen was placed on trial on April 30 for the tragic courthouse fight in which Judge Massie, Prosecuting Attorney Foster and Sheriff Webb were killed. Two other persons died subsequently of their wounds.

Floyd Allen was charged specifically at this time with the murder of Commonwealth's Attorney William M. Foster, prosecutor in the Carroll county court at Hillsville, last March, when the trial of Floyd Allen culminated in the killing of five persons, viz: Presiding Judge Thornton L. Massie, Prosecutor William M. Foster, Sheriff L. F. Webb, Miss Elizabeth Ayres and Juror Augustus Fowler. The news of the shoot-up of the court created a pronounced sensation and sent a thrill of horror throughout the county.

The tragedy created a panic in the little mountainside town of Hillsville, where the inhabitants always held the Allen clansmen in deadly terror. Arrests of several of the Allens followed the shooting, but five of the principals escaped to the mountains. Rewards for their arrest resulted in three of them being taken, but Sidna Allen, leader of the clan, and Wesley Edwards, his nephew, have never been captured.

A Suicide Hurts Pedestrian.

New York, May 20.—Disappointed in his failure to obtain employment here, Henry Kistian, a jewelry salesman, of Boston, committed suicide early this morning by leaping from the third floor of a hotel in Houston street. He landed on the head and shoulders of a passerby, Richard Daily, breaking his neck and injuring Daily so seriously that the latter may die.

Red Letter Days.

June 25, 26 and 27 should be red letter days in the educational life of the State. The Louisville meeting of the Kentucky Educational Association will be held on these dates, with many of the most notable educators of the land on the program.

DEMOCRATS OF OHIO COUNTY!

Don't forget the County Mass Convention at Hartford next Saturday, May 25, at which delegates will be selected and instructed for the State Convention at Louisville next Wednesday. It will be a very important occasion, as this is Presidential year. The convention is called to meet at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Do not fail to be on hand.

BULLET FIRED INTO PILLOW

Under His Head, Just After He Retired.

EVIDENT WORK OF ASSASSINS

Who Also Prepared for Robbery—Shot Fired from Loft Overhead.

VERY LITTLE CASH SECURED

The people near Lambert's schoolhouse are considerably worked up over a robbery and attempted murder that occurred in that neighborhood only a few nights since, says the Hawesville Clarion.

John Fulkerson, a farmer who resides alone about a mile east of the Lambert schoolhouse, went to bed as usual about dusk on the night mentioned and before it was entirely dark, he was greatly surprised and frightened by the report of a pistol in the loft directly over his bed. He leaped for his shotgun, which was near at hand, and then for shells, which he had left on the mantel near his bed, but when he got to the mantel and found that his shells had been removed, the fact began to dawn on him that the other fellow was master of the situation and that he was not in safe company, so in his night clothes and still holding the shotgun, Mr. Fulkerson made a hasty exit and started for his nearest neighbor, Frank Bruner.

Arriving there, he learned that Mr. Bruner had but one shell for the gun, and he was afraid to let it leave the house, so the fight that Mr. Fulkerson planned never took place. When some of the neighbors returned with Mr. Fulkerson they found that robbers in their hasty flight had taken Mr. Fulkerson's pants with $12 in the pockets, had mugged up things generally, had taken the shells as a precaution and had climbed up in the loft before Mr. Fulkerson had returned from his work in the field, and from all indications had carefully planned to kill and rob the occupant of the house. A close search by neighbors revealed a bullet hole in the pillow about three inches from where Mr. Fulkerson's head had been, and following the track of the bullet to the straw bed, their search was rewarded by finding a .38 caliber ball. On the floor the robbers left a hickory club four feet long, which had been cut with a very dull knife.

Mr. Fulkerson says that after the shot was fired and while he was feeling for the shells he heard one of the parties say, "Did you get him?" "No, listen," said the other. He says he did not remain to hear the rest of the conversation.

Neighbors are investigating the case and they think they have the parties spotted. If sufficient evidence is found, it is a safe bet that the parties will have to move. The whole community is excited and enraged, and rapid-fire guns have become a staple article at every residence in the neighborhood.

The report that the house of Edgar Hawkins, in the same neighborhood, was turned over one night of this week, was later denied.

Exonerated and Pardon.

Frankfort, Ky., May 18.—Cleared by a confession of an alleged accomplice, Habe McClure, a sixteen-year-old boy, of Rockcastle county, was pardoned from the Reform School to-day by Governor McCreary. McClure had been convicted of breaking into a store.

Representative Thomas, of Kentucky, introduced a resolution in the House asking that $50,000 be appropriated for the erection of a statue of Jefferson Davis at his birthplace in Kentucky.

WOULD RULE OR RUIN THE G. O. P.

So Thinks President Taft
Of Roosevelt.

SAYS TEDDY'S OUT OF RUNNING

And Republican Party Should Be Glad Of It—Some Bitter Talk.

TAFT THINKS T. R. WILL BOLT

Cincinnati, May 19.—In a most bitter and scathing denunciation of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, President Taft to-night declared that the "certainty of his defeat for the Republican nomination must be a source of profound congratulation to all patriotic citizens," declared that his predecessor in the White House would wreck the Republican party if he should be chosen by the Republican National Convention, and compared Mr. Roosevelt to Louis XIV. of France, who said: "The state, I am it."

The attack was in the form of a statement. Mr. Taft said:

"On Thursday last I gave a statement to the press in which I said that with 520 Taft delegates then elected to the convention, and with the immediate prospect of the election of enough to exceed the necessary 540, the success of the cause of constitutional government seemed assured. The delegates elected since that time have confirmed this conclusion.

"Mr. Roosevelt's speech at Cleveland shows him in such a light that the certainty of his defeat for the Republican nomination must be a source of profound congratulation to all patriotic citizens who can now see the utter wreck that he would have made of the party, if nominated, and the great danger to which the country would have been exposed had there been any chance of his election to a third term.

"Mr. Roosevelt says that he is the Republican party, and that if the Republican National Committee, in passing on the credentials of delegates for the preliminary roll in the convention, shall hold to be unfounded his many flimsy contests, he will decline to abide the judgment of those having authority. The inference from this is that he will bolt the convention because a duly constituted Republican National Committee shall, after a judicial investigation, refuse to seat his contesting delegates. If his edict is to be heeded, then the holding of any convention at all is perfunctory and superfluous.

"The arrogance of his statement that he is the Republican party and that failure to comply with his views and wishes puts those doing so in the attitude of bolters, finds no parallel in history save in the famous words of Louis XIV., 'The State, I am it.'

"It is on a par with his declaration that 'I typify and embody the progressive element of the age.'

"With clearly traceable premeditation he projected contests without the slightest reason therefor, in many cases weeks after the regular conventions had been held, merely to make a basis for a campaign of bluff and bluster. Now he threatens that, unless this campaign thus carried on is recognized as successful, and unless honestly elected delegates shall be thrown out in sufficient numbers to give him a majority, he will break from the party and try to ruin that which he cannot rule.

"I appeal to all Republicans to say whether a man who assumes this attitude does not forfeit his claim to any right to become a candidate in a Republican convention. Honored with the nomination to the Presidency by that party, and with the most sacred obligations resting upon him to be loyal to its organization, to respect the rules governing its national convention and to recognize the authority of the committees duly appointed under its traditional policy, he flouts in advance the decision of all these and announces that unless he is to be nominated, the interest of the party and the interest of its members are to be sacrificed and only his selfish ambition is to be consulted. It cannot be that Republicans will countenance such a breach of party fealty, such treason to the party's properly constituted government and such defiance of the will of its majority."

A LIST OF PENSIONS GIVEN KENTUCKIANS

Washington, D. C., May 17.—The House Pension Committee to-day favorably reported an omnibus bill containing pensions for Kentuckians as follows:

John Cooley, Fortieth Kentucky Infantry, $24; Hough J. Holes, Twelfth Kentucky Cavalry, $30; William A. Smith, Sixteenth Infantry, $36; Annie White (widow William), Seventh Cavalry, $12; C. M. Hildebrand, Seventeenth Cavalry, $20; James Sandusky, Eighteenth Cavalry, $30; William Yates, Twenty-third Infantry, $30; William W. Hughes, Tenth Cavalry, $30; Cora A. Crist (widow James), Twenty-seventh Infantry, $12; Tann R. Shoemaker, Thirtieth Infantry, $36.

RICHEST HAUL IN THE HISTORY OF HOLD-UPS

Bandits in Mississippi Secured
More Than $200,000 from Express Car.

New Orleans, May 17.—The two masked bandits who early yesterday morning held up the fast New York limited train of the New Orleans & Northeastern railroad near Hattiesburg, Miss., made, perhaps, the richest haul in the history of train robberies.

It is positively known that from the safe which was blown open with nitro-glycerine in the Southern Express car the robbers secured more than thirty packages of currency, one of which contained more than $50,000, representing the monthly pay-rolls of the New Orleans & Northeastern and Alabama & Vicksburg railroads at Meridian and Hattiesburg.

According to passengers on the train, who returned to New Orleans to-day, Express Messenger Gray stated that one package in the car contained $140,000. This the officials of the Southern Express company deny, but the general belief is that the total booty secured exceeded $200,000.

ALLEGED BOOTLEGGING FAILED OF INDICTMENT

Calhoun, Ky., May 17.—Judge Birkhead adjourned the present session of the McLean Circuit Court this afternoon, and will return home Saturday morning. The court amounted to very little, and tried only a few civil cases.

The grand jury, after being in session for three days, returned one indictment for breach of the peace.

An effort was made to return some indictments against persons for bootlegging whiskey at Island. There were over 100 witnesses summoned, but the grand jury failed to return a single indictment. W. A. Sensing, a detective from Nashville, had been at Island for several days prior to the meeting of the grand jury, and when it leaked out what business he was in, quite a lot of excitement was manifested, and it was feared that there would be some trouble. The citizens of Island were in hopes that the alleged gang of bootleggers would be broken up, but the grand jury failed to secure sufficient evidence to return any indictments.

Quite a number of prosecutions for fishing with a net, and other minor prosecutions, were compromised and paid off.

The Rev. Mark A. Matthews, of Seattle, Wash., was elected moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, in session at Louisville.

BRYAN SPEAKS TO LOWLY POOR

Of Home Rescue Mission in Louisville.

TEARS GLISTEN IN THE EYES

Of His Hearers, As He Touchingly Tells of Jesus, the Christ.

AS "BROTHER TO BROTHER"

William Jennings Bryan the noted "commoner," was in Louisville, Ky., Sunday. He was the principal speaker at a mass meeting held in the Jefferson County Armory under the auspices of the 124th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church. It was estimated that nearly ten thousand persons heard him there. But he also spoke or "preached" elsewhere at several points in the city. The Louisville Herald gives the following short account of his visit to the lowly quarters of the city, the place where people go who do not have clothes good enough to be presentable in the fine churches:

Spellbound, 269 derelicts and inmates of the Home Rescue Mission at Eighth and Jefferson streets, were brought to a state of tears last night by William Jennings Bryan, who, with wilted collar and a newspaper for a fan, told them the story of Christ, and later received the confessions from many that they had never heard it before. It was a fitting display of the evangelistic powers of the noted lecturer who went into the very heart of the underworld to carry the teachings of the gospel last night. But a short time previous he had addressed an assemblage of bankers, brokers and capitalists at the Shubert Masonic Theater.

The tiny chapel of the mission was crowded to its utmost. Men upon whose faces were lines of care and sorrow, boys who were miles and miles away from their homes and "in hard luck," and broken down human wrecks whose lives had been blighted from the day of their birth, crowded each other upon the narrow, scarred benches in the stuffy chapel and waited hours for the man who was to convey to them the message of God.

"When I will have told you the story of our Savior," the speaker began, "you will have been born again. Something that you never conceived will have entered your lives. You, men, I am speaking to, as brother to brother.

"I am going to speak frankly and openly. I know that many of you question the tradition and the story of Jesus Christ, the miracles He wrought and His very being.

"Christ is repeating his oft-told of miracles every day. He is even raising men from the dead. There are polluted men in the very depths of sin that even a mother's love cannot save. But in the gospel of Jesus Christ they find their rejuvenation. If that is not lifting men from the dead, what is?

"My life has not all been entirely satisfactory to me," Bryan continued. "Several times I have tried to render service to the millions, but have failed. But I can still see some places, recall some instances, where I have been of service, and it does me good.

"Men, you needn't thank me for coming here to-night. I thank you. To me this seems one of the memorable occasions of my life. If I have been of any service to you, I am more than gratified to think that I was able."

Many years ago W. T. Bruce conceived the idea of the Home Rescue Mission. Since then it has been the haven of penniless, half-starved strangers in the city and the name of the founder is known to more men of the class he seeks to assist, probably, than any other being.

Bryan was requested by him to bring some message of the gospel to the inmates of the home.

The Mississippi River Commission decided to appropriate $100,000, and property owners have pledged a similar amount and more if required, to crib the Hymella crevasse in the Louisiana flood zone.

PAYS A TRIBUTE TO ED CALLAHAN

Mountain Preacher Paints
a Picture of

THE FAMOUS FEUD LEADER

Contributed to the Uplift of His Community By Building a Church.

WAS DESTROYED BY AMBITION

Maysville, Ky., May 18.—The Rev. Joseph M. Evans, of this city, the Southern Presbyterian mountain evangelist, who has been personally acquainted with nearly all the good and bad people of the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, has this to say of Ed Callahan, who died recently from the effects of an assassin's bullets:

"With the death of Ed Callahan, the last of the leaders on either side, it seems that the most noted feud of Kentucky should only be a memory. The public knew him as a desperado, a murderer, an assassin, a fiend incarnate. With no desire to excuse, palliate or condone, I only desire to do him evenhanded justice. His was a unique character. Born of obscure parentage, almost without any education, his surroundings devoid of any refinement or anything that ennobles or elevates, he had absolutely nothing to develop or encourage him to follow the path of rectitude. From infancy he was taught to avenge by physical force any insult or injustice. He learned his lesson well. Brave, manly, shrewd, executive, he fought the battle of life successfully. No obstacle hindered him. Poor, by untiring energy and industry he amassed a fortune of goodly proportions.

"His wife was a member of one of the best families of the mountains. Their home was one of most generous hospitality. Some years ago Dr. E. O. Guerrant, under a tent, held a meeting on Callahan's premises and near his residence. Ed Callahan, his wife and neighbors, in number more than 100, united with the church. The question presented itself at once: What must be done for a house of worship? Ed Callahan said: 'One church will be built in Breathitt county without aid from abroad. Collect what you can and I will give the remainder.' And he did, at a cost of hundreds of dollars. It was in this building that I saw him first. For years he lived, so far as is known, an upright and useful life. His home was the minister's home. He dispensed an abundant hospitality. He educated his daughter at Oxford, O. She became an accomplished scholar, musician and refined woman. The last meeting held by myself there she presided at the organ and led the singing. All was well in the home.

"Alas! an evil genius came and ambition entered Callahan's life. A thirst for position and notoriety took possession of him. He became allied with one of stronger will, and the old feud spirit of his ancestors was aroused. Men stood between him and the realization of his dreams of position. He received instructions from some who said, 'Dead men tell no tales.' It was the beginning of the end—one deed demanded another. Like the sleuth hound, he never bolted the track when once he lapped the blood. The deeds that followed are history and cannot be changed. Let us throw the mantle of charity over them and thank our Heavenly Father that we were more fortunate in our early surroundings and our later associations. Nothing that could be written will change an iota what is numbered with the eternal past. Whatever any one may think of Ed Callahan, but for him Witherspoon College, in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, educating hundreds of mountain boys and girls, where he died, would have had no existence. There never was a man so awfully bad that he had not one good trait or never did one good thing in his life; so it was with Callahan."

HOW TUBERCULIN TEST WILL APPLY IN STATE

Frankfort, Ky., May 17.—Under an opinion by Attorney General Garnett, the Kentucky State Board of Health has the right to kill animals afflicted with diseases that are communicable to human beings, while the State Livestock Sanitary Board has the right to kill stock which has diseases communicable to other animals, but not to human beings. This means that cows which are found to have tuberculosis, which is communicable to human beings, may be killed by order of the State Board of Health without compensation to their owners. Animals killed by order of the Livestock Sanitary Board may be paid for by the Fiscal Court of the county where the animals are destroyed.

The question was presented to the Attorney General at a conference between members of the State Board of Health, representatives of the dairy interests of the State and the Livestock Sanitary Board, in an effort to reach some agreement as to the rules governing the application of the tuberculin test for dairy cattle. The Board of Health was willing to turn over to the livestock board the power to order cows killed and the Attorney General was asked if the health board could do this. The Attorney General holds the authority to protect human life rests entirely with the Board of Health.

CLARK AND ROOSEVELT VICTORS IN CALIFORNIA

Colonel's Plurality Over 60,000,
While Speaker Leads Gov.
Wilson by 20,000.

San Francisco, May 15.—Returns to-day from yesterday's State Presidential preference primary are useful only to determine the exact pluralities totaled up by Theodore Roosevelt and Champ Clark over their respective opponents for the Republican and Democratic nominations. Roosevelt's plurality is estimated at between 60,000 and 65,000 over Taft and La Follette; Champ Clark leads Woodrow Wilson by probably 25,000.

Roosevelt carried nearly every county. Even San Francisco, where a determined effort was made by the Taft managers to make a good showing for their candidate, favored the Colonel by a plurality of 3,437. Senator La Follette carried San Diego county only.

Champ Clark's victory over Woodrow Wilson was sufficiently sweeping to justify the pre-election claims of his campaign managers. He also probably carried every county. No organized effort was made in behalf of any other Democratic candidate.

The twenty-six delegates won by Roosevelt and Clark yesterday are pledged to give their respective candidates their support.

Mrs. R. Brant, 11115 Paden St., Parkersburg, W. Va., had an attack of la grippe which left her bad kidney trouble, and she suffered much severe pain and backache. Then she heard of Foley Kidney Pills and says: "After taking them a short time the pain left my back and I am again able to do my own housework. Foley Kidney Pills helped me wonderfully." Sold by all dealers.

BODIES OF FOUR MORE TITANIC VICTIMS FOUND

Halifax, N. S., May 18.—Wireless messages from the steamer Montmagny, which was dispatched from Halifax last week to search the sea for victims of the Titanic, report the recovery of four bodies. Three of these were identified, as follows:

Harold Reynolds, a steerage passenger.

C. Smith, a steward.

A Syrian girl, about 15 years old. One body, that of a sailor, was unidentified and buried at sea.

A child can't get strong and robust while intestinal worms eat away its vitality. To give the child a chance to grow, these parasites must be destroyed and expelled. WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE is guaranteed to remove the worms; it also puts the vital organs in healthy, vigorous condition. Price 25c per bottle. Sold by Hartford Drug Co., Hartford, Ky., Donovan & Co., Beaver Dam, Ky.

Proving It.

"People nowadays," said the old house cat, "don't know how to raise children. They let the youngsters have their own way too much." "That's right," replied the old brood hen. "Now, look at these chicks of mine. They wouldn't have amounted to anything if they hadn't been sat upon."

Stiff neck is not only painful but annoying. To get rid of it quickly rub the affected part with BAL-LARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. It penetrates the flesh and relaxes the muscles so that the pain ceases immediately. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Hartford Drug Co., Hartford, Ky., Donovan & Co., Beaver Dam, Ky.

DISINTERRED BODY OF WIFE

And Carried It Two Miles Back Home.

TRIED TO BRING IT TO LIFE

After Two Weeks Burial—
Now He is a Pitiful Raving Maniac.

DEVOTION AND HORROR MIXED

Chicago, May 16.—There was a weird twenty-four-hour struggle to conquer death in the home of Chas. Hillegan, in Naperville, to-day.

It was the struggle of Hillegan to bring his wife, who died two weeks ago, back to life. And when it failed, the heart-broken man's thread of reason snapped. He is now a raving maniac in the jail at Naperville.

The story of Hillegan's gruesome effort to bring his wife back from the grave reads like a contribution from the pen of Edgar Allan Poe. His actions and his present condition prove that he is a victim of the most crushing grief that a human being could experience.

Mrs. Hillegan died while visiting relatives in Seattle, two weeks ago. When informed that his wife was dead, Hillegan would not believe it.

Even when the body was brought back to Naperville, he insisted that a physician should be called and that efforts be made to revive her. In the face of his obstinate assertions, arguments were futile. He said that his relatives, who refused to call physicians, were robbing him of his wife.

During the funeral Sunday he sobbed violently and collapsed when the coffin, bearing the body of his wife to the grave, was taken from the house. It was necessary to take him to bed and give him medical attention.

As soon as it was dark last night, he armed himself with a spade, a shotgun and an ax. Then he went to the cemetery where his wife had been buried and sought out the fresh grave. He is 50 years old and in frail condition, and it took practically the entire night for him to reach the box that held the coffin. This he smashed with the ax. The lid was removed from the coffin in the same manner, but more gently.

Hillegan lifted the body of his wife tenderly from the coffin and, staggering under his crushing burden, both mental and physical, began the walk two miles to his home. How he succeeded in making this long trip, his relatives do not know. They do know, however, that he trudged through the gate and back to a shed in the rear of his house shortly after sunrise. He placed the body tenderly upon a bench in the shed, raised the head slightly with a pillow and then went to the house for food. Relatives remonstrated with him, but Hillegan sternly reproved them. He seized an old shotgun and ordered them to leave him alone with his wife.

"You robbed me of her once before. You can't do it now," he said. He took food and a bottle of camphor to the shed and began the work of trying to restore life in the lifeless body. He rubbed camphor upon the cold brow, then offered food to the lips that refused to open.

This process he continued for hours. Meanwhile word had gone out through the village that Hillegan was trying to "work a miracle." A crowd soon congregated about the ground, but nobody ventured in. Hillegan made occasional trips to the fence, trained his gun on the most curious and warned them against interfering with him. The warning was enough. Nobody ventured in.

This evening, when he realized that his efforts were in vain, his reason gave away. Officers removed him to jail, and the body of his wife was returned to the cemetery.

Mrs. Rose A. Freeman, Clifford, Va., says they have long used Foley's Remedies and want to say a good word for them. She writes: "Foley Kidney Pills cured my husband of a long standing kidney trouble, after he had taken other medicines without relief. We would not be without Foley & Co.'s medicines in our house for many times their cost." Sold by all dealers.

WHITE PITTSBURG GIRL ELOPES WITH A NEGRO

Pittsburg, Penn., May 16.—Clara Kruthaup, 23 years old, who received her education in a convent, today eloped with Charles Jackson, 37, a negro. According to the police and the marriage license office records, they were married here by Rev. A. Wakefield, of the A. M. E. Zion Church.

The couple and Mrs. Edna Walls, a negress, are being held. The latter testified at a hearing to-day that she had gone to the marriage license office with Jackson and represented herself as Clara Kruthaup. She testified she did this because Jackson had threatened her with violence if she refused.

The girl's father and Detective Harry Jackson, of Cincinnati, attended the hearing. When the negro was brought before the Court to testify in his own behalf, he swooned, and had to be carried to a cell. The father is willing to forgive his daughter and take her back home with him. Thus far she has turned a deaf ear to all his entreaties.

OLDEST KNOWN COPY OF THE GREEK BIBLE

Or Portion of It, Recently Discovered—Was Reprinted from Papyrus.

London, May 16.—The British Museum authorities have just issued a printed edition of an important papyrus volume which was found in Egypt last year.

The original Coptic manuscript is the oldest known copy of any translation of a considerable portion of the Greek Bible, and, in fact, says the London Times, is probably as early as any copy now in existence—of any considerable part of the Bible.

It comprises the books of Deuteronomy, Jonah and the Acts, and was evidently a copy made by some devout person for his private use from a pre-existing document.

Proof is, therefore, afforded that copies of the Egyptian—that is to say, Coptic—translation of books of both Testaments were in use among Egyptian Christians early in the fourth century—the period to which Dr. Kenyon ascribes the British Museum papyrus, and consequently the original of the version itself cannot be placed later than the third century.

Early monastic traditions concerning the spread of Christianity in Egypt are thus confirmed. The manuscript had been well used by its original possessors, for it was found that the back binding had been strengthened with strips of vellum when it was repaired some time before the middle of the fourth century.

Considerable difficulty was experienced by the Museum experts in handling the ancient papyrus. Many of the 109 leaves were worm-eaten, the edges were much rubbed, and it was at first found impossible to copy it, for at every turning the ink flew off the page.

The authorities therefore took the book to pieces, and mounted each leaf separately between two pieces of glass.

In the printed edition just published under the title of "Coptic Biblical Texts in the Dialect of Upper Egypt," the Coptic text is printed line for line and column by column, readings from the Greek being added.

Plates showing the papyrus and the mutilated and defaced condition of the writing are also included, and there is an introductory description of the manuscript.

John B. Staton, Joyce, Ky., had an exceptionally severe attack of whooping cough. He says: "If it had not been for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound I would have been compelled to quit work. Instead, I never missed a day, and Foley's Honey and Tar Compound gave me instant relief and is the only cough medicine we ever use." Contains no opiates. Sold by all dealers.

Two dear old ladies were discussing husbands. Said the first: "I have been married three times. Each of my husbands is dead, though. They were all cremated." Her friend was a dear old maiden lady. She listened attentively to her friend, and when she had concluded the sad story of her life she said: "How wonderful are the ways of Providence. Here I've lived all these years, and have never been able to get one husband, and you've had husbands to burn."

J. W. Jordan, a well known dentist of Hopkinsville, Ky., recently had an operation for his kidney trouble, but he says: "The first real relief I got was after taking Foley Kidney Pills. They eased the terrible pain in my back and accomplished more good than anything I had tried. I gladly recommend them." Sold by all dealers.

MAKE PROVISION FOR GOOD ROADS

In Bill Passed by Democratic House.

PROVIDE GRADUATED OUTLAY

To Be Spent on the Roads
Used By Rural Mail Carriers.

A MOVE IN RIGHT DIRECTION

(By Clyde H. Tavenner.)
Washington, May 18.—"We favor federal aid to State and local authorities in the construction and maintenance of post roads."

This was a Democratic pre-election promise. It was a plank in the platform adopted by the National Democratic party at the Denver convention in 1910.

This pre-election promise, along with nearly every other one made by the Democrats on the stump in the last campaign, has been fulfilled. The Democratic House of Representatives has just passed the Shackleford amendment to the post-office appropriation bill providing for an expenditure of from ten to eighteen million dollars annually for the construction and improvement of the nation's roads.

The principle on which it is proposed to spend this money is based on compensation to be paid by the Federal Government for the use of roads traversed by carriers in the rural free delivery service, and is divided into three classes, as follows:

Class "N"—The highest form of improved road in the country, for which it is proposed to pay $25 per mile per year.

Class "B"—A thoroughfare of high quality, but not equal to Class "A", for which it is proposed to pay $20 per mile per year.

Class "C"—The ordinary dirt road of the country, somewhat improved, for which it is proposed to pay $15 per mile per year.

Sentiment in favor of road improvement with money now being wasted for fake commissions like the Canadian Boundary commission—which exists solely to provide soft berths for lame duck politicians like Tawney of Minnesota—is growing rapidly throughout the country. For many years the people who live in the farming communities, and in the smaller cities and towns, have felt that too much of the public money was being spent in the larger cities. In the last 10 years fully 90 per cent. of the public revenue has been spent in the cities, notwithstanding the fact that the people of the country have furnished more than half of all the money collected by the Government.

Neither the States nor the National Government will be the loser by generous expenditure for public road construction, for the money will ultimately come back through the increase in the taxable value of farm lands. Nor is that the only way it will come back. Whatever makes for the agricultural development of the country also aids other industries in the land. All classes rely upon good crops for prosperity.

SENTENCED FOR BEATING HER NEPHEW TO DEATH

Salem, Mass., May 17.—Mrs. Jennie O. Wentzell, of Lynn, was sentenced to fifteen years in the State prison here when found guilty of the charge of manslaughter in causing the death of her ten-year-old nephew, Charles Bouppe. Repeated beatings she gave him caused his death.

A GRADUAL DECLINE IN THE TUBERCULOSIS

Death Rate Saves Twenty-Seven Thousand Lives
Each Year.

In the decade from 1901 to 1910, the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States declined from 196.9 for each 100,000 persons living to 160.3, a decrease of 17.7 per cent, while the general death rate, including all causes of death, declined only one-half as fast, or at the rate of 9.7 per cent, from 1655.0 to 1495.8.

These figures were given out in a statement just issued by The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. They are based on data abstracted from the reports of the United States Bureau of the Census, and cover the registration area in this country. According to the statement, the tuberculosis death rate has declined steadily since 1904, when it was 201.6. On the other hand, the general death rate shows a fluctuation downward in general trend, but not as steady as the tuberculosis rate. The decline in the tuberculosis death rate in the last ten years means a saving of 27,000 lives at the present time.

In certain cities, such as New York, Boston, Cleveland and Chicago, and in States like Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, the decline in the tuberculosis death rate is much more marked than in the country at large.

The National Association says that there are many factors working together to cause the decline in the tuberculosis death rate, such factors as the change in the character of our urban population, increased sanitation, and better housing, but probably as potent a factor as any has been the nation-wide anti-tuberculosis campaign. "It may be foretold with considerable certainty," the statement concludes, "that when the effects of the present rapidly increasing provision for the care of tuberculosis patients shall have become evident, the decline in the death rate from consumption in the coming decade will be even more marked than that in the last one."

SPECIAL NOTICE
In regard to
OBITUARIES, RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT, &c.

The Hartford Herald has adopted a new rule in regard to Obituaries, Resolutions of Respect, Cards of Thanks, &c., whether written at the behest of lodges, churches or individuals, and that is, we shall charge at the rate of two cents per line for all such articles, except obituary poetry, which will be one cent per word, straight. This is the smallest rate we charge for anything and is only one-fifth of our regular rate. The amount, in cash or stamps, must accompany each article, or it will not be printed. Six words average a line in ordinary reading and every separate character or initial letter counts as a word. The heading and the signature both count one line each, even if they are only a word or two. All obituary poetry, straight through, one cent per word. Contributors please remember.

FINDING GUILT BY HEART BEATS

The New Way of Criminal Examination.

DEGREES OF HUMAN EMOTIONS

Are Tested by Suggestive Words and Finely Constructed Machine.

INSTEAD OF "THIRD DEGREE"

What is believed to have been the first demonstration in a Court of Justice of the Munsterberg theory of criminal detection by heart pulsations, took place not long ago in a California Court. The demonstration ended in the discharge of Arthur Smith, a metal worker, who had been arrested as a suspicious character.

The theory and the proposed test were explained to the prisoner, who readily consented to be a party to the experiment. The stethoscope was adjusted and his normal pulse was tested and found to be 79 beats a minute.

Certain words were then spoken to the prisoner, who was also asked to reply to each with a word suggested by the one asked. This was done for the purpose of testing the claim of Prof. Munsterberg that words spoken to men under arrest, especially those pertaining to the crime with which they might be charged, would cause them embarrassment in answering and would produce accelerated action of the heart.

The word San Quentin, where the prisoner was suspected of having served a term, caused no acceleration of the heart and demonstrated his innocence according to the theory.

When interrogated as to his assumed name of James Smithers, his heart action increased to 91 beats a minute. On being charged with not having told the truth in this particular, the prisoner gave his correct name and address.

If an actual photograph of the heart action is desired, it may be obtained by the aid of a machine which Dr. E. A. Newton, a German scientist, is said to have invented. It portrays accurately the pulsations of the heart muscles and action of the valves and discloses all irregularities, however slight. Accelerated action of the heart resulting from the emotion of fear arising from guilt, would be disclosed in a characteristic series of leaps and bounds which are quite diverse from the pulsations due to the influence of love or joy.

A New York dentist advocates laughing gas as a substitute for the police "third degree." He believes that this, the least dangerous of anaesthetics, lays open what already is in the mind, unconscious of the search for its secrets. He believes that if a man who has committed a serious crime should be questioned about it during a certain stage of recovery from nitrous oxide, or laughing gas anaesthesia, he would not only reply, and truthfully, but half a minute later he would realize truthfully what he had said.

An interesting experiment upon a prize fighter of international reputation, who was one of his pa-

How Hartford Citizens Can Find Freedom From Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache—From urinary disorders—Any curable disease of the kidneys.

Use a tested kidney remedy. Doan's Kidney Pills have been tested by thousands.

Grateful people testify. Can you ask more convincing proof of merit?

W. M. Young, farmer, R. F. D. 3, Hawesville, Cloverport, Ky., says: "A member of my family used a box of Doan's Kidney Pills about three years ago and found them very beneficial. She had pains in side and across the small of her back. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in the local papers, she got a supply at Gibson's drug store and began using as directed. In a short time she was cured and has not had any further need of a kidney remedy."

tients, was made by the physician administering the nitrous oxide. As the patient was recovering from the anaesthetic and had reached the point where he began to break away from complete unconsciousness, the physician began counting distinctly, "One, two, three," and then the patient took up the numbers, saying, "Four, five, six—I'm all right and ready," acting upon the impression that he had been knocked down in the ring and must show that he nevertheless was qualified to meet the requirements of the situation. When he had recovered he said the experience was most vivid.

It is claimed that this method can be used to extract the truth from persons charged with serious crimes, that they will make a confession under the nitrous oxide partial anaesthesia, and on recovering full control of the senses, will realize what they have done and will give the full details. But no "confession" will be made if there is no guilt.—[Case and Comment.]

CRUISERS THAT PUNISH CREWS

Blunders Made by British Naval Architects.

CRUISERS OFTEN SENT TO SEA

In Really Unseaworthy Condition—Faults Originated In Building.

A FLOATING FIERY FURNACE

One of the most important points in building a big warship is that she shall be a steady gun platform. It is obvious that no gun crew can make good shooting from a ship that rolls about like a drunken man.

For this purpose, all our large battleships are provided with two bilge keels, which are long steel plates running parallel to the keel, one on each side of it. They are fixed just at the angle where the almost flat bottom curves sharply up to the side.

For some reason one of our latest giants, the huge Dreadnought cruiser Orion, was sent to sea with bilge keels much smaller than the ordinary.

The result was that when she ran into rough weather she rolled in a simply appalling fashion. Everything that could possibly get loose went tumbling from side to side, and as for shooting, her big guns would have been practically useless. She has been brought back into Devonport Dockyard to have new keels fitted.

The Lion, which was launched a few months ago from the same dockyard as the Orion, and is so long that the dock had to be specially lengthened to hold her, is the fastest cruiser in the world. She develops 28 knots.

Her engines are of 78,000 horse power and naturally she needs terrific heat to drive her at full speed.

Her navigating bridge was placed on one side of her foremost funnel, and the fire control platform (from which the guns are worked) on the other.

When the Lion went out for her full speed trials, flames, 50 feet long, roared out of the top of this funnel and swept the bridge, and especially the fire-control platform. It was said that every piece of metal on the bridge was warped and twisted, and that some were even melted.

As for the fire control, any one who had ventured there would have been literally roasted alive. This platform is 30 feet above the top of the funnel, and was exposed to the full blast of the volcano-like eruption from its mouth.

Like the Orion, the Lion is back in dry dock. Her foremost funnel will have to be shifted a long way further forward, and at least $25,000 of the taxpayers' money will be expended to make good the results of the blunder.—[Pearson's Weekly.]

The Demons of the Swamp

Are mosquitoes. As they sting, they put deadly malaria germs in the blood. Then follow the icy chills and the fires of fever. The appetite flies and the strength fails; also malaria often paves the way for deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters kill and cast out the malaria germs from the blood; give you a fine appetite and renew your strength. "After long suffering," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C., "three bottles drove all the malaria from my system, and I've had good health ever since." Best for all stomach, liver and kidney ills. 50c at James H. Williams, m

DROVE OF ELK TAKE LONG JOURNEY BY RAILROAD

More than a score of the elk which were starving in Wyoming this winter, and consequently taken in charge by the Government and distributed to places where they would have a chance to live, have arrived at the Chesnimus forest preserve in this State. Most of their long journey was made in cattle cars, but the last 30 miles was by sled on roads through snow that was about four feet deep.

The elk were brought to this State as a result of the establishment of a popular fund to pay the expenses of transportation. More than 10,000 persons saw the animals at the various stations on the way, and the game officials of the State declare that the event has stirred up much sentiment for the preservation of game.

The herd was located at St. Anthony, Idaho, after having been driven from their former grazing grounds in Wyoming. In it was a snow-white heifer called Lady Whitebird, the most graceful animal among the elk. The leaders of the herd were two big bulls called Taft and Roosevelt. Unlike those for whom they were named, they were able to get along in peace, and stood together to repel outsiders. They held constant station at the door of the car, and showed a desire to fight when there was any sign of danger. It was with difficulty that they were put into the crates on which they were shipped on sledges to the forest preserve.—[Portland (Ore.) Cor. New York Times.]

REPRESENTATION IN 1912 ELECTORAL COLLEGE

Judging from statements published in several newspapers and from the inquiries addressed to others, there is a confusion in the popular mind as to the number of Presidential electors to be chosen in November. Even distinguished political authorities have fallen into the error of maintaining that the total number of electoral votes will be 490, which is the total of the combined membership of the present Senate and House. In making this error the new apportionment of the House is overlooked. The law provides that the number of electors shall be equal to the number of Senators and Representatives to which the several States are by law entitled "at the time when the President and Vice President to be chosen come into office." The Congress to be elected in November will have 531, not 490, members, Senate and House. The number of electors to be chosen in November must correspond, and consequently the aggregate electoral vote will be 531.

A Personal Affront.

Striking members of the Amalgamated Skirt Stitches were holding a conference.

"Where is that tall, thin girl who joined the union last week?" inquired the walking delegate.

The secretary arose to reply: "She handed in her resignation this morning."

"What was her reason?" "She took offense when she was called on to act as a picket."—[Judge.]

MAKING ERRORS—BLAME THEM ON THE PRINTER

A certain editor had cause to admonish his son on account of his reluctance to attend school.

"You must go regularly and learn to be a great scholar," said the fond father, encouragingly, "otherwise you can never be an editor, you know. What would you do, for instance, if your paper came out full of mistakes?"

The boy looked up into his parent's face with childish innocence.

"Father," he said, solemnly, "I'd blame 'em on the printer!"

And then the editor fell upon his son's neck and wept tears of joy. He knew he had a successor for the editorial chair.

Great Weekly at a Low Price.

The Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer, a twelve-page paper recently transformed into the size and appearance of a daily, will be furnished in connection with the Hartford Herald at only $1.35 for the two papers. This price stands good on renewals for The Herald. The Weekly Enquirer is an ideal newspaper, containing a big variety of reading and is especially suited to the farming classes. It is Democratic and progressive. This is certainly a low price for a lot of good reading.

Helps a Judge in Bad Fix.

Justice Eli Cherry, of Gillis Mills, Tenn., was plainly worried. A bad sore on his leg had baffled several doctors and long resisted all remedies. "I thought it was a cancer," he wrote. "At last I used Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was completely cured." Cures burns, boils, ulcers, cuts, bruises and pms. 25 cents at James H. Williams. m

He did all he could for me, but I got no better. I hurt all over, and I could not rest. At last, I tried Cardui, and soon I began to improve. Now I am in very good health, and able to do all my housework."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

You may wonder why Cardui is so successful, after other remedies have failed. The answer is that Cardui is successful, because it is composed of scientific ingredients, that act curatively on the womanly system. It is a medicine for women; and for women only. It builds, strengthens, and restores weak and ailing women, to health and happiness.

If you suffer like Mrs. Fincher did, take Cardui. It will surely do for you, what it did for her. At all druggists.

It seems that Hartford has been sort of persona non grata with Beaver

In his card committing himself to the support of Champ Clark, Gov. McCreary says: "He has known since his first visit to Kentucky that I would do all in my power to give him the nomination."
If the Governor is really and heartily for Clark and is ready to "do all in his power to give him the nomination," why is he not in favor of instructing delegates to that effect? Why hesitate, Governor?

From present indications, the convention to be held at Hartford next Saturday will be a Democratic love-feast. This is well, and there should nothing come up to mar the harmony of the occasion. Let instructions be given in plain,

unmistakable terms for President, and for any other matter in which Democrats are privileged to speak out. No Democrat who can possibly attend, should fail to be present.

We think our readers will bear us out that in no issue in recent months have these two columns contained any advice or dictation to the Democrats of Ohio county as to who they should support for the Democratic Presidential nomination. We are always willing to trust the voters for a wise selection. But we are very emphatic in the belief that they should speak out decisively and send an instructed delegation to Louisville.

Mr. Emmett G. Logan, former editor of the Louisville Times but who retired from active newspaper work several years ago, died at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, last Wednesday, after an operation for an affection of the ear, the bursting of an artery proving fatal.
Mr. Logan was one of the most brilliant paragraphists of the Kentucky press, and was universally beloved. His remains were brought back to his old home at Bowling Green for interment.

Cheer up, farmers! Behind the clouds the sun is still shining. It's a long winter that knows no spring, and things are often not so bad as they appear at the start. So long as we are not compelled to go hungry and have enough of the necessaries of life to keep us comfortable, we should abide the Lord's will as to the future. Let us be glad we are not on the bounty of the public, like people of the flooded districts of some other sections of the country. We are all prone to complain. Let us be patient and try to be content.

The Democrats of Ohio county should not forget that next Saturday is Convention Day in Hartford.
The convention will be called to order at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.
There should be a large crowd present, for it will be a very important occasion. This is Presidential year and this will be the opening gun for Ohio county. Let many Democrats be present and speak out their choice. The convention should go on record in a very emphatic manner. If you are a Democrat, do not let any ordinary matter keep you away.

Gov. McCreary has issued a card in which he says: "I am not a candidate for United States Senator and do not expect to be a candidate for that office. My greatest desire now is to be a faithful and efficient Governor." This sounds all right and is in accord with his expressions along this line at the Hartford Fair Grounds at the big Democratic rally here last fall. The people have the utmost confidence in Gov. McCreary as their Chief Magistrate. In this position he should not allow himself to be used as a political asset by any party faction.

The little Journal "Our Country" has once more aroused from its dream of everybody having all the liquor they want and a general jamboree of all the people without any restrictions whatever, and heaves another broadside of whiskey argument at The Herald, still harping on its old idea that the Bible does not speak against promiscuous liquor drinking. Its woozy memory seems to have lapsed again, or rather it is too blind yet to read plain print, for it harks back to an editorial published by The Herald several months ago, and, as usual, ignores our repeated plain question, "Is or is not Our Country backed by the liquor interests?" That is the issue—the vital question—and we defy Our Country to answer it.

Destroys Dandruff

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the scalp clean and healthy, destroys all dandruff, and greatly promotes the growth of the hair. You will certainly be pleased with it as a dressing for your hair. It keeps the hair soft and smooth and promptly checks any falling of the hair. It does not color the hair, and cannot injure the hair or scalp. Consult your doctor about these hair problems.
Ask him what he thinks of Ayer's Hair Vigor.

NO CHOICE ON FIRST BALLOT

Is Likely To Be Made At Baltimore.

CLAIMS OF RIVAL MANAGERS

Are Made Public—Clark Leads in the Instructions
Of Delegates.

HARMON REPORT COMES LATER

Washington, May 18.—With more than two-thirds of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention elected, control of the Baltimore gathering remains as much in doubt as it did several weeks ago. Claims made to-day by the managers of the different candidates at the headquarters in Washington, made it clear that none of them expect to control the convention through instructed delegations on the first ballot, even though great strides are made for their respective candidates in the conventions and primaries still to be held.

The Democratic convention will consist of 1,094 delegates. Under the two-thirds rule applying to Presidential nominations, 729 votes will be necessary for any candidate who secures the nomination. With about 320 delegates still to be selected, the strength of the respective candidates was given by their headquarters, as follows:

Clark—Claimed instructed, 323;
pledged, sixty-eight; total, 391.
Conceded to Wilson, eighty, not including South Carolina's eighteen, where the convention endorsed Wilson. Conceded to Underwood, eighty-four; to Harmon, two; to Baldwin, fourteen; to Marshall,
thirty; to Burke, ten. Considered doubtful, 127.

Wilson—Claimed as instructed,
243; Kansas, twenty (Burke), and North Dakota's ten (Burke), claimed as favoring Wilson, thirty; total of Wilson's claimed strength, 273. Conceded to Clark, 236; to Underwood, eighty-two; to Harmon, four, to Foss, thirty-six; to Baldwin, fourteen; to Marshall,
thirty; to Burke, ten. Considered
"uninstructed and doubtful," 136.

Underwood—Claimed as being instructed, total delegations of Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi and six from Tennessee, total ninety. No other claims made.

At the Harmon headquarters today it was said a statement would be made later.

THE "TWENTY-THREE" TOWN WILL GET A RAILROAD

Maysville, Ky., May 20.—As it is now almost an assured fact that Mt.
Olivet is to have a railroad connection before many days, it has been figured out that the capital of Robertson county is perhaps the most peculiarly situated town in this State as to the distance it bears from neighboring towns.

It is twenty-three miles from Maysville; twenty-three miles from Dover, O.; twenty-three miles from Augusta; twenty-three miles from Flemingburg; twenty-three miles from Carlisle, and a fraction over twenty-three miles from Falmouth and Cynthiana. These towns surround it on all sides, making an easy calculation for the railroad engineers.

MASTER AND HIS MULE ARE BOTH YET ON DECK

Hickman, Ky., May 20.—One of the most interesting figures among the persons in the recent overflows here was J. W. Long, a white-bearded Federal soldier, now about seventy years of age, who resides in the upper bottoms above Hickman.
He has been forced out two or three times this year by the floods, and has been knocked out of several crops on account of the high water.

He also came near losing his famous old mule, which was saved by being floated on a raft. Mr. Long has made thirty-seven crops with this mule, and is preparing to make the thirty-eighth. The mule is forty years old this spring and is still spry and active, but no more so than his master.

BODY OF SON HELD AT DEPOT—GETS DAMAGES

A damage suit of unusual character was decided by the Court of Appeals in the case of A. P. Alcorn against the Adams Express Company, appealed from the Estill Circuit Court. Alcorn's son, a soldier in the army, died in the Philippines, and his body was shipped home. Alcorn contracted with the Wells-Fargo Express Company to deliver the body at the home of Alcorn in Estill county. When the body reached Irvine, the Adams Express Company refused to deliver the body until charges amounting to $138 were paid. Alcorn sued for damages, and the court here says he is entitled to $500, and directs that judgment be entered for that amount. Two trials were had,
and at the last, peremptory instructions were given for the express company.

RICHESON ELECTROCUTED AT THE MIDNIGHT HOUR

Maintained His Even Composure
To the Very Last Fateful Second.

Boston, May 21.—Clarence V. T.
Richeson was electrocuted shortly after midnight.

The current was turned on at 12:10:2 and the prisoner was declared dead at 12:17.

The Baptist clergyman, confessed poisoner of Aris Linnell, his Hyannis sweetheart, was outwardly calm when he entered the death chamber, and he maintained his composure while the straps and electrodes were being adjusted as he sat in the electric chair.

Richeson walked to the chair erect, eyes straight ahead, until he sat down. Then he closed his eyes and kept them shut until the end.

Seated in the chair he was asked a series of questions by the Rev.
Herbert S. Johnson, his spiritual adviser.

During his answers he said:
"God will take care of my soul and I pray for all. I forgive everybody." The last of the questions was: "Are you willing to die for Jesus' sake?" The reply, in an even, well modulated tone, was simply, "I am willing to die."

As the word "die" came from the lips of the man in the chair the goldheaded cane of Warden Bridges was tilted slightly upward, there was a crash of a falling lever and Richeson was no more.

The lithe form of the former pastor surged forward, in the great leathern thongs, but no sound came from the throat of the victim.

The current was kept on for one minute and eight seconds. The man was dead the instant of the contact which was made at ten minutes and two seconds after midnight.

After the electric wires were disconnected from the chair, the three physicians, Drs. McGrath, Mc-Laughlin and Butler, declared the victim dead.

It is expected the wishes of the dead man will be carried out and that he will be buried beside his mother in the family lot in Virginia. A brother, Douglas Richeson, of Chicago, is in Boston to take charge of the body.

Teachers' Examinations.

There were fifty-six applicants for teachers certificates in the examinations held at Beaver Dam last Friday and Saturday.

Teachers' Money Ready.

Superintendent Henry Leach now has the money for the last month's salary for the teachers of Ohio county.

Improving the Pike.

Several car loads of crushed rock have been hauled from Hartford depot and placed on the Hartford and Beaver Dam pike, which was badly needing repairs. In all there will be about ten car loads of rock scattered on the pike this spring. The rock is being furnished by the Hartford Stone & Construction Co., and the work is being superintended by Esq. B. S.
Chamberlin.

The General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church selected Atlanta as the next meeting place.

Only 4,961 votes were cast for the Republican candidates, and as this is less than the 10 per cent. requir-

The only way the names of the

AGREEMENT RATIFIED BY ANTHRACITE MINERS

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 18.—By a vote of 323 to 64 the Anthracite Mine Workers' convention late today, ratified the agreement entered into by subcommittees representing the miners and operators. The new agreement will be signed at once.

The convention then adopted a motion authorizing the men to return to work on Wednesday, May 22.
They went out March 31. The repair men will return to work Monday.

The result of the vote was announced amid cheering, though it was manifest when the delegates rose to their feet to vote, the agreement had been carried by a large majority. The debate had been on for five days.

A motion was immediately adopted authorizing the miners' subcommittee to sign the new agreement along with the coal operators.

BEAVER DAM.

May 20.—Last week was commencement week with our school and our town was full of visitors. The exercises were never excelled by any previous school held in our town. The exercises closed on Friday evening with graduating speeches by four of the students, after which they were presented with diplomas by their teacher, Prof. Shultz. Those graduating were: Mr. Clifford Maddox and Misses Clara Loyd, Hilda Bean and Altha Williams. The patrons were so well pleased with the faculty that the trustees have employed Prof. Shultz and part of the faculty to teach another term. The vice president, Prof. Wilson, had an offer at his home that he accepted and has returned with his wife to his home in Lexington. Prof. Wilson and his good wife made many friends while in our town who regret to see them leave. Misses Altha Likens and Sophia Williams have resigned. They are both good teachers and their places will be hard to fill.

The County Board met in town last Friday to examine those applying for certificates to teach. There were sixty teachers present to take examinations.

Mr. Wava Park, of Taylor Mines, was in town last week and as he returned home the mule he was riding became frightened and threw the young man, fracturing his skull, but at last reports he was improving.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lallenger left last week for Atlanta, Ga., where they will make their future home.

Mrs. Delmer Williams and daughter, Miss Sophia, leave this week for Mt. Vernon, Ill., where Mrs. Williams will be treated by a specialist for neuralgia of the eye.

Mr. Hubert Stanley, who moved from this town to Colorado some years ago, has returned with his family and has accepted a position with the Planing Mill Co.

Miss Lillian Patterson has been visiting relatives at Beaver Dam this week.

Mr. Ira Plummer, who has been in Arkansas for several months, has returned home.

Mrs. Agnes Patterson, of McHenry, is visiting relatives near here.

Dr. E. W. Patterson, of Dawson Springs, is visiting his parents near here.

Notice.

Ohio Circuit Court.

J. W. McCarty, Assignee, Plaintiff,

vs.

Fordsville Banking Co., Defendant.

By virtue of a judgment rendered at the April term of the Ohio Circuit Court in the above case, I will, on the 27th day of May, 1912, at Fordsville, Ohio county, Ky., about 10 a. m., offer for sale at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, the following personal property:

Two safes, one lot of chairs, one check-filing case, and all other personal property belonging to the assigned estate of the Fordsville Banking Company, being the furniture and fixtures of the said company.

Said property will be sold for cash in hand, where the amount is $5.00 or less, but if over $5.00, will be sold on a credit of three months. The purchaser will be required to execute bond with approved security immediately after sale.

This May 11th, 1912.

Great Stunt by Lone Bandit

Grass Valley, Cal., May 17.—Posses to-day were searching for a lone bandit who rode a horse into town late yesterday, locked three clerks of the Nevada County bank in a vault, and escaped with $3,000 in gold. He escaped to the edge of the city on his horse and then disappeared on foot in the underbrush.

AN APPEAL FOR A FATHER'S DAY

To Be Observed Along With Mother's.

MEED OF PRAISE TO MOTHER
Is All Right, But Father Should Also Be Given a Little Notice.

"A WOMAN" SPEAKS HER MIND

How beautiful it is to see the man of this man, rushing age; pause long enough to pay a tribute of respect to the one who bathed her feet in the very waters of death that he might live!

The tribute which we have in mind is the celebration known as "Mother's Day." Shall we say again it is beautiful to hear the sons of the twentieth century sing songs of mother's love; read verses which tell of her tenderness; and to see them crown her head with flowers, the appropriate emblem of honor? Indeed it is good for them to cherish the mother who ever pointed them to those paths which lead to nobility and righteousness. Ah! may poets continue to sing and artists unceasingly paint her unselfish love.

But is there not another wearing the sacred name of parent who deserves a word of encouragement, a solitary flower, or a single deed of kindness shown him for his untiring zeal and pride for those of his household? He may fail to utter the gentle language which mother does, but perhaps his body is weary from toil and his mind filled with cares. For is it not he who must "drive the wolf from the door," weather the wintry gale; earn the bread for the children; and when the bank note comes due with no funds to abate it, is it not father who must face the cold creditor and say, "Won't you renew it a while longer?"

It is strange why those who have penned such touching lines about mother, have neglected to give father any of the credit due him. In the holy commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee," we see his name mentioned with mother's, even preceding it, but people have not yet given him justice on the pages of literature.

The following may not be a fair

GREATEST MEDICINE ON EARTH

A prominent citizen of Evansville, Ind., writes:—"I was ill for five months with a pulmonary trouble, and had the best of doctors. I had hemorrhages and was in a very bad way. Through the advice of a friend I tried Vinol, and I feel that it saved my life. It is all you recommend it to be. I believe it is the greatest medicine on earth. I have advised others to try Vinol, and they have had the same results." (Name furnished on request.)

We want every one in this vicinity who is troubled with chronic colds, coughs, or pulmonary troubles, to come and get a bottle of Vinol.

If it does not go to the seat of trouble, heal the inflammation and stop the cough, we will cheerfully return every cent paid us for it. This shows our faith, and proves that you take no chances.

example, but it is a portion of the few songs written in his honor:

'Mother takes in washing,
So does sister Ann;
Everybody works at our house
But the old man.'

This poem by Bush Phillips may seem like a complaint, and yet it does not make quite as much noise as the suffragettes do about securing a right to use the ballot.

I've searched the magazines and papers for lo, these many days, But I haven't found an item that gives father any praise. I've looked them over carefully, I've read and studied all, But the sturdy representative of Adam's early fall Seems to have escaped the notice of the poet's lucid powers, And the one who bit the apple first has gathered all the flowers.

Why no bloom from all the vistas of the poet's floral land Was never given father, I cannot understand.

While mother sat beside the fire and darned the children's socks, Wasn't father out a-hustlin' to gather in the "rocks"? When Bennie had the fever, and Bessie was so sick, Who tumbled out for doctor, and brought him double quick?

I would not rob dear mother of one single bit of praise, For faithfully she did her duty in childhood's anxious days. And all through youth she was a mother ever kind and true, But I've got quite a chunk of praise to hand to father, too. How he worked and sweat, and grumbled, whistled, sang and smiled, Toiled until his back was bent, for mother, home and child.

I am not feeling grouchy because mother's praise is sung, For I remember her sweet kiss on my lips when I was young. But I also recollect a great big, burly, manly form, Whose heart was where it ought to be, whose smile was broad and warm,

And I think it would be just, e'en in this later day, When we're picking flowers for mother, to give father a bouquet.

A WOMAN.

SPARROW ON TOAST A PALATABLE TID-BIT

Washington, May 16.—The way to get rid of the English sparrow is to eat him.

That is the conclusion of N. E. D. Dearborn, expert biologist of the Department of Agriculture, given full authentication by the Department today.

It is announced by Mr. Dearborn and by the Department, that the English sparrow is a pest. Here is the recommendation of how to abate it:

"Eat sparrows. When boned, broiled, buttered and served on toast, they are as fine as quail."

"English sparrows," says the report, "are noisy and destructive. They drive native birds from villages and homesteads. Though they are occasionally valuable as destroyers of noxious insects, all things considered, they do far more harm than good."

In specifying methods of preparation for the kitchen, the bulletin gives the following directions for dressing the tiny culprits:

"Cut off the legs, the wings at the outer joint and the neck close to the body, strip off the skin, beginning at the neck; make a cut through the body wall bone till the ribs are severed, then around between the legs to the tail and remove the viscera. Sparrows may be cooked by any one of the methods employed for cooking reed bird and quail."

The Upper Hand.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, the well known anti-suffragist, told at a recent luncheon in New York, an anti-suffrage anecdote.

"Two suffragists," he said, "were talking one evening at the club over a game of billiards."

"How is your husband?" the first asked.

"Slowly mending, thank you," the other answered.

"Slowly mending! But I didn't know he was ill!"

"He isn't ill," the other suffragist explained, laughing heartily. "He's slowly mending my khaki riding breeches."

Good Work.

RICHEST INDIAN FOUGHT HIS WAY

To Wealth Through Many Difficulties.

HE IS A MULTIMILLIONAIRE

Got His Holdings Mainly By Driving Out Desperadoes of the Country.

CONSTANTLY AFRAID OF LIFE

The richest Indian in the world, and one of the richest landowners in Texas, coming from the recently developed Rio Grande Valley, is in Kansas City to-day. He is Lon Hill, of Harlingen, Texas, a town of 2,500 inhabitants, 25 miles from Brownsville. He called this morning on J. E. Miller, Jr., Vice President of the Commerce Trust Company. Mr. Miller was in his father's store at Belton, Texas, away back there in the pioneer days when the cowboys drove the herds that way to pastures of Indian Territory. They became friends then.

Lon Hill in the last two months sold land for $2,000,000, and he still owns 90,000 acres in the Rio Grande Valley that is estimated in value at $4,000,000.

It appears a strange thing to say about an Indian, but it is true nevertheless, that he blazed the trail for civilization and development through the Rio Grande Valley that was infested with cattle thieves, bandits and Mexican desperadoes. Mr. Hill refuses to talk about those early days, and it is left to his friends and admirers to recite the story of the deeds that made for him a reputation as a fighter. Mr. Hill still has many enemies and he never is without two six-shooters strapped to his belt. His long black hair falls to his shoulders and his rugged features make him a picturesque character.

Some of Mr. Hill's friends recite some of the tales when Hill, a graduate of the Texas University, gave up a law practice of $30,000 a year to go into the Rio Grande Valley to rid it of outlaws and establish a mammoth fortune for himself.

He once purchased 4,500 acres at $1 an acre and the wife of the man from whom he purchased it complained to her husband that the price was too cheap.

"I could afford to give it to him," the seller said. "Once Lon Hill gets into this country, the thieves will leave our cattle alone."

One of the leaders of a gang of cattle thieves sent word to Hill that he would kill him and braid his long, black hair for bridle reins. They met by chance on the road one day. One man rode away. It was Lon Hill. Then the desperado's wife, herself a horsewoman and a deadly shot, took up the feud. She could ride at breakneck speed on horseback and empty two revolvers full of bullets into the bark of a sapling. They never met, however.

Hill's friend asked him what he would do if he were attacked and had to fight a woman.

"I would prove the gallantry of a gentleman," he said. "I would extend to her the courtesy of the first shot."

The Rio Grande Valley is developing rapidly now and only a few of the thieves and desperadoes exist in the outlying districts. They still hold a grudge against the man who led posses and made war on them, however.

The other day at his home an enemy fired on him from a house as he was passing in a motor car. The bullet splintered the steering wheel in the hands of a chauffeur. Hill reached into the leather pockets of the car and drew a rifle and a revolver. He emptied them into the side of the house as the chauffeur turned the car into full speed. Upon reaching home the chauffeur asked for his pay. He said he guessed he would go back to New York.—(Kansas City Star.)

HE TOLD 'EM JUST WHEN TO PLANT BASEBALLS

Just before Horace Greeley started for the Cincinnati convention in 1872 he received a letter asking his opinion about baseball. He scratched off a reply as follows:

You ought to plant baseballs early in the spring so as to insure their getting ripe before fall. Most baseballs are picked too green and consequently are very hard, and we have heard of a great many balls being foul, which we attribute to the same cause. I am told the best way to cook them is to have a good stiff batter and send them in hot. Send me a few of the fly balls for seed and next year I can tell you more about them. Yours liberally, Horace Greeley.

LEFT ON THE BATTLEFIELD

What! was it a dream? And I all alone
In the dreary night and the drizzling rain?
Hill! Oh, it was only the river's moan;
They have left me behind with the mangled slain.

Ye snow I remember it all too well!
We met from the battling ranks apart;
Together our weapons flashed and fell,
And mine was sheathed in his quivering heart.

In the cypress gloom, where the deed was done,
It was all too dark to see his face;
But I heard his death-groans, one by one,
And he holds me still in his cold embrace.

He spoke but once, and I could not hear
The words he said, for the cannon's roar;
But my heart grew cold with a deadly fear—
O God! I had heard that voice before!

Had heard it before at our mother's knee,
When we lisped the words of our evening prayer;
My brother! Would I had died for thee—
This burden is more than my soul can bear!

I pressed my lips to his death-cold cheek,
And begged him to show me, by word or sign,
That he knew and forgave me; he could not speak.
But he nestled his poor cold face to mine.

The blood flowed fast from my wounded side,
And then for awhile I forgot my pain,
And over the lakelet we seemed to glide
In our little boat, two boys again.

And then in my dream, we stood alone
On a forest path where the shadows fell;
And I heard again the tremulous tone,
And the tender words of his last farewell.

But that parting was years, long years ago,
He wandered to a foreign land;
And our dear old mother will never know
That he died to-night by his brother's hand.

The soldiers who buried the dead away,
Disturbed not the clasp of that last embrace,
But laid them to sleep till the judgment day,
Heart folded to heart, and face to face.
(1863)

HE HAS A WEAK HEART— AND ALSO WANTS A FAVOR

The departments in Washington receive some queer letters. Below is given verbatim a letter received recently by the bureau that has charge of the bonds of mail contractors from a man who wished to get off a bond. It is unique. The last sentence contains a valuable suggestion to others who dislike to receive disagreeable news, especially on business matters. The letter tells how he signed the bond merely to oblige a friend, and then continues with this personal history:

"I Risk My Life to go to the lecture last fall. I have done all I can for you office Men at the White House. So I Wood like if you office Men Wood git me out of trouble so I cod Rest i haint Work one Day for 13 years on count of Palpitation of the Heart Some times i cant bare the clock Strike So you no My heart is Weak you office Men Do all you can to git Mee out of trouble. If they had toll Mee the lettin Was 4 year i Never Wood Sind the bond. I thought it Was 1 year So i Was foold when you Rite Dont Rite any thing that Will excite Mee it Will Fly to My Heart."

A SYSTEM OF THUMB TESTS FOR INFANTS

It is Said by Scientists That Individual Finger Marks
Never Change.

A baby's finger prints, it has been determined by Captain Faurot, of the Police Bureau of Identification, are just as distinctive and clearly marked as they will be at any time after the baby has reached maturity. This decision has been reached by the police identification expert after considerable study of youthful digital imprints. He tried to pursue his investigation at Bellevue Hospital, but was not permitted.

Captain Faurot has taken finger prints of small children, and after reproducing the impressions on cards has subjected them to a careful microscopical analysis. He finds that the peculiar lineations are sharp and distinctive, even though very tiny, and he believes that from the day of its birth to the day of its death any child can be identified by its finger prints.

Experimenters in England and Continental Europe, where the finger print science was developed earlier than it was in America, have shown by finger prints taken at intervals of years that an individual's finger marks never change. Faurot thinks it would be good to put his system into use in the city's maternity hospitals. Many of the children are the offspring of criminal parents, and many develop into criminals. Faurot suggests that taking their finger prints would help the police later in tracing these children.

Such a system would be of the highest scientific value, he thinks. It would enable the authorities to determine what proportion of those arrested for crime were born in city institutions. Records of the parents would throw light on the children's antecedents and would go far toward showing the relations between crime and heredity and environment. It might also help to throw light on the matter of sterilizing criminals.

Finger-print identification, or rather the use of such identification, Captain Faurot thinks, is in its infancy. He believes that when the science is more generally understood it will be adopted widely in business. Bank clerks, Faurot says, frequently go wrong, and the apprehension of an absconding bank employee would be greatly facilitated if the police had that employee's finger prints. Finger prints might be attached to passports, too.—[New York Sun.]

FUTILITY AND FAILURE By William Henry Cudiff.

The world worships success. But what kind of success? Is it the success which builds up the waste places of the earth—the success which enlightens men, which enlarges thought and action, which supplies a long felt want, which teaches how to make better human conditions by better systems of agriculture, education, environment, society and government; which establishes just and ethical relations between men and nations, which erects higher moral standards of life and conduct, which makes man stand forth as supreme in creation and in life as the great exemplar of all that is good, just and rational? Or is it the success of sordidness and sensuality—the success which is based on cunning and chicanery, the success of wrong and injustice, the success of tyranny and oppression, the success gained by the destruction of the liberties and opportunities of others, the success of wealth and power won by spoliation of nations and individuals, the success of slaughter, rapine and robbery?

Count the successes (?) which succeed by means and methods devious, derogatory and derisive, as futile and full of failure! This kind of success is in ethics devious, in character derogatory, and in itself desecrated and derisive.

It is the success of cunning and ferocity over all that is just, rational, righteous and reverent. It is the success of wolves, jackals and hyenas. It is the success which wrongs and which robs human beings of the joys and beauties of life. It is the success which takes no cognizance of the rights and liberties of others, and which disgraces and degrades all humanity by its immoralities and its defiance of all which is pure, just and honest. It is the success of a savage competition, and a coarse, brutal individualism which fosters all that is cruel, immoral, and unrighteous, in life and society. It is the success of capitalism which robs, ruins and reduces soul, mind and body by untold profits.

Were all the crimes of capitalism in its wicked alliance with greed, graft and gain, reduced to a minimum, they would yet remain so stupendous in number and so terrible in consequence, that, were mankind fully enlightened, the world would stand aghast at them. Futility and failure have marked all the nations of ancient and modern times which were built on economic injustice and sustained by industrial servitude.

Whenever mankind concludes to be governed by reason and to be influenced by a knowledge of the principles of justice and equity, then futility and failure will no longer menace man.

Ballard's SNOW LINIMENT

Is the Right Remedy for All Abrasions of the Flesh.

If the wound is cleansed and the liniment applied promptly the healing process begins at once and the wound heals from the inside outwardly, thus performing a perfect cure that leaves no scar. If the wound heals on the outside too quickly, pus forms under the surface and breaks out into a running sore that is hard to cure and inevitably leaves a bad scar.

Owners of blooded stock prefer this liniment to all others for that reason, and they use it not only on fine animals, but on human flesh, as it does its work quickly and thoroughly.

ODD FACTS ABOUT THE EYES

There are scores of little eye signs which give the key to a person's thoughts and betray that person when he or she is unaware of it. An ordinary man bent on deception, will flinch his eyes if someone looks him "straight in the eye." The accomplished rogue, however, will not. The eye that never flinches when challenged is not—as many people, especially young women, suppose—the sign of an open and affectionate character. More often than not it betrays the criminal. A detective declared that the worst rogue that he ever came across was possessed of a pair of over-steady eyes, and that their unswerving gaze kept him above suspicion for a couple of decades. He would probably never have been suspected of his many crimes had he not been caught red-handed while attempting to cash a forged check.

The unsteady eye—that is, the eye that jerks rapidly from eye to eye when the owner is excited or accused of a crime—does not express guilt, as is often believed. In nine cases out of ten it is a sign of honesty and an unsettled mind.

If you measure the distance between your eyes you will probably find that it is the breadth of one eye. If by chance your eyes are farther apart than that, you are possibly very intellectual and have a tenacious memory. Eyes that are very close together very often signify a deceitful, cunning nature.

Blue eyes are considered to possess more attractions than eyes of any other color. Among the Greeks and Romans of classic times, girls possessing eyes of this color found great favor among men, and it must not be forgotten that the goddess Minerva received a surname to signify the blueness of her eyes. There are, of course, several kinds of blue eyes, and physiognomists declare that the pure blue eye, while denoting a sincere, honest nature, is seldom possessed by a person with large intellectuality.

On the other hand the large clear blue eye indicates not only great mental power, but sincerity and honesty. The eye half blue and half gray, and devoid of orange specks, denotes a practical and pure mind; but the china-blue eye, when it is glassy and unchanging, is generally a sign that the owner is of a cold and selfish nature. This eye is generally the property of criminals.

There are no eyes which are coal black. What are called black eyes are of a very dark brown, and as a rule they are possessed by men and women who are constant in their affections and perfectly honest in all the business they undertake. Dark brown eyes which, while sparkling, are very shifty, denote that the owners are selfish, unscrupulous, and of a cruel disposition. Light brown eyes express deceitfulness and lack of imagination, while the small, penetrating brown eye, of medium shade, is a sign of a mercurial nature, vivaciousness, and deceitfulness.

It has been declared that all clever men and women look upon the world with gray eyes. That there is a considerable amount of truth in this statement can be gathered from the fact that a large proportion of living writers and artists have eyes of gray, and that among great ones of the past whose eyes were of this color, were Shakespeare, Coleridge, Byron, Charlotte Bronte, Wilkie Collins, George Eliot and Charles Reade.

Gray eyes, by the way, denote creative temperament, but not always honesty. What novelists and poets term the cold, gray eye, is denotes shrewdness and talent. Very clever people whose eyes are gray generally have small spots of orange in the iris around the pupil. —[Tid-Bits.]

LONG EXPECTED YOUNG LADY FINALLY ARRIVES

When the wife of Roscoe Turner, boatbuilder, 2010 Caspan Ave., presented him with an heir this morning, the nurse tiptoed out and said to the crowd of Turners that had assembled: "It's a girl!"

Immediately there was a scene of great rejoicing, all the Turners shaking one another by the hand and the little boys dancing with delight. The arrival of this new Turner breaks a record established through four generations, every other baby born in the family during that period of nearly 90 years having been a boy.

Payne Turner, founder of this branch of the family, came from Massachusetts. He had four sons, no girls. Three of these sons had children, all of them boys. Eight of their eleven boys married and six had children, all boys. All of Roscoe Turner's cousins and brothers who have married so far have had only boys. The Turners have about given up all hope, when Ruth Eleanor Turner set up her first weak little cry at 5 o'clock today.—[Atlantic City (N. J.) Dispatch.]

LOOK ON THE FIRST PAGE

On the wrapper around your Herald. You will find a little yellow slip. It has printed on it your name and a date after it. The date shows when your subscription expires or when it did expire. This is all the book we keep of your subscription account, and there is no excuse for you not knowing just how you stand with THE HERALD. We are trying to get our subscription list on a strictly cash-in-advance basis, so as to avoid trouble and misunderstanding. We do not want to force the paper upon anybody against their will, but we want all that is due us. Please give this matter your very prompt attention. Look at that little yellow slip containing your name. It will tell you just what you need to know, without any explanation from us. If it is wrong in any way, let us know. Anyhow, please pay us what is due. It takes much money to run a good newspaper nowadays, hence we must keep our subscription accounts collected up. Either come to The Herald office and pay the arrears and a year in advance, or, if you are not coming to town soon, send us a check or post-office money-order for the amount due. We will appreciate it and it will make us think you really want the paper.

PHILIP BURRIS BROUGHT BEFORE THE GRAND JURY

At Henderson—Says He is Innocent of Charge in Royster Case.

Henderson, Ky., May 18.—Accompanied by Sheriff Abbott and Policemen H. W. Kohl, Philip E. Burris, now serving a life term in the Eddyville penitentiary for the murder, by poisoning, of Henry Royster, was brought to Henderson from the penitentiary for the purpose of testifying before the grand jury. Sheriff Abbott and Policemen Kohl arrived Thursday night with their convict prisoner, and their arrival was kept a profound secret. Burris was lodged in the county jail Thursday night, and few persons in the city knew of his presence in the city. He was not dressed in convict stripes, but wore a dark blue suit and soft hat. Beside the fact that he wore handcuffs, no one, except those who knew him, would realize that he was the man whom a jury sentenced to spend the remaining days of his natural life behind penitentiary walls.

Burris was called before the grand jury at 10 o'clock Friday and remained in the jury room for over an hour. What he testified to in the grand jury room is known only to those who heard what he said, but is almost positive that he was called for the purpose of giving testimony against others implicated in the death of Henry Royster and Ret Davis, who died last December after drinking beer which was poisoned.

Burris says he is innocent of the crime for which he is now paying the penalty, and reiterates his statement made before being taken to Eddyville, that "no one except Blanche Royster is guilty of poisoning Henry Royster." He contends that he was railroaded to the penitentiary, and his conviction was the result of strong public sentiment against him. He says some day it will be shown that he was innocent of the crime.

It is apparent that the grand jury is probing into the case for the purpose of ascertaining, if possible, if others should be indicted for the deaths of Henry Royster and Ret Davis, the colored cook.

Sheriff Abbott took Burris back to Eddyville Friday afternoon on the 1:30 o'clock Illinois Central train. There is an indictment against Burris charging him with the murder of Ret Davis, but it was filed away at the opening of the May term, with leave to reinstate.

What Texans Admire

Is hearty, vigorous life, according to Hugh Tallman, of San Antonio. "We find," he writes, "that Dr. King's New Life Pills surely put new life and energy into a person. Wife and I believe they are the best made." Excellent for stomach, liver or kidney troubles. 25c at James H. Williams.

WEST PROVIDENCE.

May 20.—Perhaps many who read your interesting paper wonder where West Providence is situated. Many know well, on account of it being an old church site. Perhaps some who have assisted in erecting the church that now stands are in distant States, some seeking their fortunes wherever they can. Some are resting in the beautiful little cemetery near by. The church is situated on west side of the Rockport and Centertown road. Built eighteen years ago, dedicated by Rev. Ellis Maddox, deceased, of Owensboro. Rev. J. H. Tow, of Rochester, is now pastor and filled his appointment here the 2d Saturday and Sunday. Quite an interesting Sunday School is now carried on here.

Mr. John Ashby, of South Centertown, died at his home Sunday, May 19th, having been an invalid perhaps three years. His wife preceded him a few weeks ago. He was about 76 years old. His remains will be laid to rest in West Providence cemetery to-day.

HORTON.

May 19.—Messrs. Arvin Leisure and Ezra Crowder attended the examination at Beaver Dam Friday and Saturday.

Miss Katie Wright entertained a crowd of young folks at her home Friday night.

Miss Loretta Crowder, of Hartford, has been visiting her cousins, Misses Maude and Versie Crowder. A party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Logan Wright Saturday night. Those present were: Messrs. Arvin Balze, Frank Wright, Geo. Wright, Clyde Bryant, Jesse Smith, Bennie Bartzell, Jno. Thomas, Blaine Westerfield and Lonnie Crowder; Misses Bessie Wright, Artie Duke, Ruth Wright, Maude Crowder, Versie Crowder, Maggie Miller, Flora Ashford, Lena May, Sarah May and Katie Wright.

Mr. O. T. Duke and daughter, Mrs. Edmondson, of Owensboro, are visiting Mrs. Sarah Thompson. Mrs. Wm. Smith is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Thompson, of Crowley, La., are visiting friends and relatives in this section.

Miss Artie Duke, of Owensboro, is visiting Miss Bessie Wright.

Mr. Ira Cox, of Hartford, was in town Monday.

Mrs. C. E. Crowder and daughters are visiting relatives around Morganfield.

Mr. Cecil Potts, of Red Hill, was in town Sunday.

Mr. C. E. Crowder is farming on a large scale this year.

Mrs. Mattie Couch, of Beaver Dam, visited Mrs. Sarah Thompson Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Taylor, of Beaver Dam, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lonie Thompson Sunday.

SHREVE.

May 20.—Wheat isn't looking as it should for the time of year.

The fishermen of the neighborhood are having good luck catching plenty of nice catfish from Rough river.

T. E. Butler has almost completed the house he is building for his miller, Mr. Roscoe Stone.

A. Shartzer went to Bowling Green last week to attend the Red Men's meeting.

Mr. Jeff Fentress and wife, of Narrows, were the guests of Mrs. Fentress's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hazelwood, Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whittinghill and two little sons, Robert and Peter, of —, were the guests of Mr. T. E. Butler and family last week.

Mr. C. T. Whittinghill, wife and daughter, of Trisler, were the guests of Mr. Charlie Davison and family Sunday.

Mr. Brady Payton left Friday for Tennessee to work on a bridge.

BARRETT'S FERRY.

May 20.—Mr. Leslie Herndon, who has been depot agent here only a short time, has accepted a better position on the main line. His place here will be filled by Mr. Allie Fentress.

A pound-supper was given by Mr. Roy Penn last Tuesday evening, it being his 21st birthday. Everyone enjoyed the occasion.

Mr. Maley Gentry and Miss Amy Douglass took the teachers' examination held at Beaver Dam Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Willis Coppage, near Hartford, visited Mr. William Gentry and family Thursday and Friday.

A hail and wind storm passed over this vicinity Thursday evening, but without doing any damage. The Democrats of this community are enthusiastic in their support of Champ Clark and an instructed delegation.

Floyd Allen, first of the Hillsville, Va., murderers to be convicted, declared he would not die in the electric chair.

BENT WITH AGE AND VERY DEAF, WAS CONVICTED

Of Stealing Chickens—Pardon
To Be Asked for An Old River Man.

Henderson, Ky., May 18.—Dock Selman, a white man, past 72 years of age, was convicted in Circuit Court Friday afternoon on an indictment charging him with chicken stealing. The jury, in sentencing Selman guilty, recommended executive clemency, no doubt, on account of the defendant's age. His case will, in all probability, be taken before Gov. McCreary at the earliest possible moment, in order that a pardon for him may be acted on before the prisoners convicted at this term of court are taken to Eddyville penitentiary.

Selman is an old fisherman. He has lived on the river all his life. For many years he lived in a hovel near the mouth of Canoe creek, and during the summer fished for a living. He was charged with stealing a number of chickens from Ernest Meyer and the evidence against him was so conclusive that the jury could do nothing but find him guilty as charged in the indictment.

The defendant presented a pathetic picture in the court room. His hair and beard are as white as driven snow and years have weighted him down until he cannot stand erect. He is very deaf and because of his affliction, had no knowledge of what was going on about him. He did not hear a word of the jury's verdict that will, unless pardoned by the Governor, place a suit of convict stripes on him. When being taken back to his cell at the county jail, he was made to understand that he had been convicted. The only reply he made was that he was not guilty.

SMALLHOUS.

May 20.—Mrs. T. L. Withrow and children and Miss Debbie Thompson, of Central City, are visiting Mrs. N. D. Fulkerson near here this week.

Mrs. Sam Morton has returned from a visit to her son, Mr. Ross Morton, at Central City. She was accompanied home by Mrs. Ross Morton and children.

Mr. James Hendrix, of Rockport, Ky., was the guest of his uncle, Mr. M. P. Maddox, and family, Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. J. R. Hunter, wife and daughter, Miss Ethel Hunter, and Miss Oma Maddox went to Centertown last Friday.

Mr. Will Hendrix and little daughter, of Rockport, Ky., visited near here Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. P. L. Wood and sister, Miss May Hunter, Ceralvo, visited relatives and attended church near here Sunday.

The Sunday School at the Smallhouse Baptist Church is progressing nicely.

Mr. Byron Igleheart, Misses Gayosa Ashby and Lula Hardin, of Matanzas, attended church near here Sunday.

Miss — Bennett, living near here, is visiting relatives at Beda.
